

PGA.com

PGA.com, the Official Web Site of The PGA of America, is produced by Turner Sports New Media, a division of Time Warner.

On PGA.com, both golf enthusiasts and PGA Professionals can experience an unparalleled mix of multimedia golf news, features and services, including expert instruction, news from the industry, and the latest from the tours.

Among the features you will find on PGA.com:

■ Instruction

Capitalizing on the unparalleled resource of more than 28,000 PGA Professionals and the PGA Learning Center, PGA.com offers the Internet's premier source for a wide variety of multimedia golf instruction, employing the latest in online video and interactive multimedia technology.

This area features the fundamentals and everything you need to know about the full swing, short game, shotmaking and the ball flight laws.

PGA ProFinder, on PGA.com, is The PGA's online searchable directory of all PGA Professional-staffed facilities and PGA Professionals.

■ Event Coverage

PGA.com provides the official sites for all of The PGA of America's Championship events. For 2009, these include the 70th Senior PGA Championship at Canterbury Golf Club in Beechwood, Ohio; the 91st PGA Championship from Hazeltine National Golf Club in Chaska, Minn.; the PGA Grand Slam of Golf; and the PGA Professional National Championship. The event coverage offers the latest in interactive multimedia features as well as comprehensive news and features, and is the only source for real-time scoring.

■ PGA of America Information

PGA.com offers a complete suite of information about The PGA of America, its members and events. The site also includes a robust employment center, with information about a wide variety of jobs throughout the golf industry. In addition, users can buy tickets to PGA events, find out how to attend a PGA Golf School, and even learn how to become a PGA member.

■ Travel

The online component of the PGA Professionals' Guide to Travel annual magazine leverages the expertise of PGA Professionals across the country. It features new and exclusive travel content from PGA Professionals and from PGA Magazine, as well as the latest in golf-related travel news from the world's top resorts and golf destinations.

■ News and Tournament Coverage

PGA.com is one of the game's leading online news sources, covering the world of golf and all its big events. Golf fans can access tournament news, scores and features, and catch up on the latest in equipment introductions. The site also features the latest happenings at The PGA of America, and offers instant access to each week's issue of PGA NEWS.

■ E-Commerce

PGA.com has quickly become an industry leader in e-commerce. The site has implemented a series of far-reaching business-to-business and business-to-consumer initiatives that are reshaping the way the industry conducts its business. These initiatives include the PGA.com Value Guide and the PGA Trade-in Network, both of which aid consumers in finding fair-market values for their used golf clubs as well as assisting them in locating PGA Professional-staffed facilities to trade in their golf clubs for credit toward the purchase of new clubs. The site is also the exclusive online destination for Official Ryder Cup and PGA Championship merchandise.

For more about PGA.com, contact John Kim, Coordinating Producer: john.kim@turner.com, or (404) 827-5035.